

令和4年度入学者選抜学力検査問題 前期日程
英語 正解・解答例

I

Q1(A)

Our memories surprise us by remembering more than we expect.

(10 words)

Q1(B)

Although we forget a large part of our experiences, our memory is accurate.

(13 words)

Q1(C)

Time and memory training can have a strong impact on memory performance.

(12 words)

Q1(D)

It is because the experts' research emphasized how memory works, not how well it works.

(15 words)

Q2

(E) 1

(F) 3

(G) 4

(H) 2

Q3

The advantage of forgetting things is that you won't remember your most embarrassing moments in life, such as when you were in high school or making a mistake performing in front of people.

(33 words)

The disadvantage of forgetting things is that you might forget important life lessons from your parents and teachers or the highlights of building Legos when you were five years old.

(30 words)

II

Q1(A)

One of the main effects of lockdown was to give disabled people opportunities to work and enjoy activities that they did not have previously.

(24 words)

Q1(B)

The Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development found that many workers lack flexible working opportunities such as flexitime, part-time hours, or job shares.

(23 words)

Q1(C)

The author does not want online services to be canceled but wants them to remain available alongside face-to-face services.

(19 words)

Q1(D)

It is because “normal” refers to how society functioned before COVID-19 when many things were not accessible to disabled people.

(20 words)

Q2

(E) T

(F) F

(G) T

(H) T

(I) F

Q3

I agree with the author’s stance. Access should be provided for disabled people even if it is expensive because they have the right to enjoy life just like able-bodied people.

(30 words)

I disagree with the author’s stance. I think that it is uneconomical to provide these services because the income from them may be less than the cost of provisions.

(29 words)

III

Countries with low food self-sufficiency can have problems related to international relations and the environment. The former may cause difficulties if global relations worsen. For example, if there is a war, food may not come in from abroad for an extended period of time. Another concern may be in how changes in the environment could affect food distribution. For instance, abnormal weather conditions may cause food production to decline and prices to soar, making it difficult to obtain or purchase food. Thus, international relations and environmental problems can be a serious risk for low food self-sufficiency countries.

(97 words)